Call Recording Benefits:

Reduced Liability: Too many businesses reach out to obtain a call recording solution because they have been sued or are in a heavy dispute. These owners and sales managers discover that having a recording solution monitoring these calls would have reduced this liability and quickly resolved the situation. Many times, the cost of one lawsuit or dispute will pay for the recording system.

Incident/Event Recreation: Public safety, emergency and transportation departments commonly need to re-create an incident or emergency in real-time format. Versadial's recording solution and user interface allows these agencies to piece together a timeline view and re-create these incidents to objectively review and train agents.

Compliance: Maintaining proper compliance and adhering to internal processes is an important piece of your daily business operations. Regulatory compliance enforced by outside entities may require you to record your inbound and outbound calls.

Training: With calls being recorded 24/7, you gain an insight into your daily verbal transactions. Our quality control and testing module allows managers to listen to calls and review agent performance. Indicate problem areas, share their results with the agent, mark tests and calls for review and conduct quality training from any PC within the network.

Quality Control: Our QC module makes it easy to grade calls as well as conduct general QC reviews. Create custom forms to suit your business model, send reviews to another manager or the employee for further training. Run Quality Control reports to monitor your employees' progress and see if there is any room for improvement.
